PROTECTING SACRED SITES & MONITORING CULTURAL RESOURCES

DECEMBER 5-7, 2012
LAS VEGAS, NEVADA

Presented By:

Larry Myers, Former Executive Secretary of the Native American Heritage Commission
Sonia Tamez, Former Tribal Relations Manager, Pacific Southwest Region, U.S. Forest Service

Tools To Protect Sacred Lands and Monitor Cultural Resources

Beginning December 5, 2012, NIJC will conduct a training session on Protecting Sacred Sites & Monitoring Cultural Resources. This session examines the challenges and barriers to protecting sacred sites on lands that are important for traditional religious beliefs and practices. The training will also provide an introduction to cultural resources monitoring at road construction sites, energy projects and other activities where sacred sites and cultural resources may be affected. Participants will receive a comprehensive reference manual and certificate of achievement upon completion of the training session.

This Training Session Will Focus On the Latest Developments In:

- ▶ Case Law
- ▶ State and Federal Policies on Government-to-Government Consultation
- ▶ Federal and State Laws such as The American Indian Religious Freedom Act
- ▶ The Archaeological Resources Protection Act
- ▶ The California Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act
- ▶ The National Historic Preservation Act

ADDED FEATURES

- ▶ Responsibilities of State and Federal Agencies
- ▶ Roles and Duties of Cultural Resource Monitors
- ▶ Collaboration Between Tribes, Agencies and Archaeologists
