TRIBAL COURT SENTENCING ALTERNATIVES, TLOA AND OTHER TRIBAL PROBATION UPDATES

DECEMBER 4-6, 2013
LAS VEGAS, NEVADA

Presented By:

Hon. William Johnson, Chief Judge of the Umatilla Tribal Court
Joseph Myers, Executive Director, National Indian Justice Center

This training examines in detail the field of tribal court sentencing alternatives. It is designed to improve the skills of probation officers and to explore new sentencing methods. The training is for judges, probation officers (adult and juvenile), and is relevant to those who interact with probation activities including police officers and correction staff members. The training will also examine the proliferation of youth gangs in Indian country.

Effective sentencing alternatives are vital to tribal courts. This training session explores a range of issues concerning tribal court operation: the evolution of tribal court systems, the essential components of tribal court probation, the evolution of juvenile justice, criminal procedures and the mandate of the Indian Civil Rights Act, diversion programs, sentencing alternatives, pre-sentence investigations and reports, probation hearings, probation orders and probation agreements, monitoring of probation, interaction with rehabilitation resource agencies, modification of probation, revocation of probation and release from probation. We will also examine the Tribal Law & Order Act of 2010.

The best practices in the field are presented and the trainees participate actively in the training process. On the final day of the session, the trainees engage in exercises based upon sample case materials.
