

The Cultural Guardian Award

Guidelines

Purpose

The Cultural Guardian Award recognizes an individual who has demonstrated a powerful commitment to protecting, preserving and enhancing the cultural integrity of Indian tribes of California. The recipient must have demonstrated a dedication to tribal language enhancement and preservation activities that assure an intergenerational connection to culture and tradition.

Criteria

The recipient will have shown a high regard for the California tribal cultural preservation and revitalization by having demonstrated excellence in three or more of the following areas:

- Cultural protection, preservation and enhancement
- California tribal language preservation and revitalization
- The promotion of intergenerational cultural activities among community members
- Tribal cultural program enhancement
- Tribal cultural and historical documentation and/or exhibition or curriculum development

Eligibility

The California Indian Museum and Cultural Center provides three awards on an annual basis, one in each of the following categories:

- The Cultural Guardian Award
- The Leadership in Action Award
- The Emerging Leader Award

All California Indians and Native Americans living in California are eligible for nominations.

Nomination Process

An individual may submit more than one nomination to each category.

Completed forms and letters of nomination will be accepted through Friday, May 14, 2010 until 5 p.m.

A letter of nomination should accompany the nomination form describing a brief history of the nominee, a summary of their contributions to the community and how the community has benefited from their dedication, and how they exemplify the purpose of the award.

Letters of support from others may also be submitted.

Presentation

Award recipients will be selected by members of the Board of Directors of the California Indian Museum and Cultural Center. Winners will be notified directly by May 21, 2010.
